Robison Speaks on 1930 Melon Fete

Addresses Kiwanis Club's Luncheon Today Noon

Geo. W. Robison, head of the 1930 Watermelon Festival committee, asked for the full co-operation of members of the Hope Kiwanis club, at their regular luncheon in Hotel Barlow Thursday noon. He told how the committee had started work on this year's festival, and while its success is assured on account of the success of previous Festivals, much can be accomplished by gaining the support of all citizens of Hope, and especially the civic clubs, in making this year's Festival a banner one.

The club gave him a rising vote of support, and promised to respond to every call that Mr. Robison might make upon its members.

John Greene, of Little Rock, former Hope citizen, was also a guest of the club. He told how Little Rock is interested in the Watermelon Festival here, and expressed his confidence in this year's committee in making the Festival another outstanding success.

C. E. Bonner, member of the Kiwanis club of Hot Springs, was a guest of the club. He advised the organization that he was taking a supply of Watermelon Festival literature to Hot Springs with him. He expressed interest in the publicity Hope has achieved through these annual events.

The club will meet at the state Experiment Farm Friday, June 20, in place of holding its regular Thursday noon meeting at the Barlow hotel. This is being done in order to observe annual visiting day at the Experiment Farm.

100 Gangsters To Be Arrested In Lingle Death

Special Squads Begin the Search as Council and Press Flay

TWO SUSPECTS HELD
Police Heads Called on To "Deliver or Quit" After Murder

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—Chicago police captured by officers who have several notches on their revolvers were still searching today for the slayers of "Jake" Lingle, veteran underworld reporter of the Chicago Tribune who was shot to death Monday.

Fifty hundred hoodlums are in local jails, and this morning a host of law-ymen flocked to detective headquarters with legal papers aimed to free their clients under bond.

William Russell, commissioner of police, deferred action, however, and none of the hoodlums were released. Police are spurred to action not only by the crime itself but by their close friendship with the late reporter, who for 20 years was a familiar figure in police and journalistic circles.

There is talk unofficially, among Chicago business men of demanding the martial law support civil police authorities and launch a city and county wide campaign to drive out the criminals who infest the city.

The local American Legion post has formally tendered its members for military service in the event that there is a call to arms.

City Is Aroused

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—A police board of strategy, flayed by press and city council, Wednesday began a war to the death with gangsters.

Six lieutenants with special squads picked for bravery under fire were armed with shotguns and tear bombs and dispatched with the order: "Get your men. Don't wait for them to walk the streets. Go into their hangouts. Don't take any chances. Be ready for battle."

Detective Chief John Stege and his aides listed 100 hoodlums to be arrested, and hoped from among them to glean some clue to the killer of "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, shot to death in a Michigan boulevard tunnel Monday.

Two men appeared voluntarily before the squads went out—Sain Hunt, whose photograph witnesses of the slaying picked out as resembling the assassin, and Ralph Pierce, gangster suspect. Each promised an alibi, but each was held.

Harry Ditchburne, assistant state's attorney, was closeted with Stege through the afternoon, forming plans for examination of the incoming harvest of hoodlums—just such a harvest as has taken place three or four times in the last year. Thousands of vagrants and gun-toters and habitués of brothels, gambling joints and saloons were gathered into the net early this year in a city wide roundup, most of them going free, a few being booked and a handful fined or sentenced to jail.

But this time Stege set his jaw grimly and, facing hostile lawmen, promised his six picked squads would sweep up gangland in six hours.

"We'll show results," he said.

Front page editorials and public critics demanded that the police heads "deliver or quit."

Frank Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, said the police were "running around in circles."

"The inefficiency of the police," said Loesch, "is matched only by the efficiency of these gang killers. If Commissioner Russell and Deputy Commissioner Stege cannot begin to handle the situation it is time that they go. Their inefficiency is due to the corrupt political control of the department by the city hall."

The Daily News editorially demanded that the "vicious administrative system" go, and asserted that Russell and Stege had failed despite their opportunity to break up "the criminal gangs that infest the city and make the streets hideous with bleeding corpses. Their methods no longer inspire public confidence."

Russell replied with a statement attributing the epidemic of killings to the over-heightening strife for boot-licker profits, calling the prohibition law the source of trouble and declaring the situation not local, but national. His own administration, he asserted, has co-operated with prohibition officers and harassed hoodlums more than his predecessors.

Is Coming Trustee
LITTLE ROCK, June 12.—(AP)—Governor Parnell today announced the appointment of Theodore C. Smith, Conway, to be a member of the board of trustees of State Teachers College.

District Candidate Says He's Shadowed

LITTLE ROCK, June 12.—(AP)—A charge that one of his opponents had hired a detective to watch him and his campaign manager, was made today by Carl E. Bailey, deputy prosecuting attorney of Pulaski county, and candidate for prosecuting attorney.

A man giving his name as Leroy A. Weeks is being questioned by Little Rock police. Bailey has charged that Lat Weeks was hired by Tom Poe, Little Rock attorney who is also a candidate for prosecuting attorney. Bailey opportunity to talk this afternoon said that Weeks would be given an before members of a private detective agency and the city detective bureau.

McCormick, publisher of the Tribune, who has offered a reward of $25,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Lingle's murderers. Other rewards are also outstanding.

A PETITION OF TIME

Touch us gently, time!
Let us glide down thy stream
Gently—as we sometimes glide
Through a quiet dream!
Humble voyagers are we,
Husband, wife, and children three—
(One is lost—and angel fled
To the azure overhead!)
Touch us gently, time!
We're not proud nor soaring wings;
Our ambition, our content,
Lies in simple things.
Humble voyagers are we,
O'er life's dim, unbounded sea,
Seeking only some calm clime—
Touch us gently, gentle time!
—B. Cornwell.

A morning wedding beautiful in its simplicity was that of Miss Vivian Bennett, daughter of Mrs. Laura I. Bennett and Brooks Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Hamilton formally of this city now of Russellville, Ark., which took place at 6 o'clock this morning at the home of the bride on West Division Street. The nuptial music was given by Miss Genie Chamberlain who wore a tan ensemble with a shoulder corsage of baby's breath and a sweet peas. The ceremony was read by Rev. W. P. Harman pastor of the First Christian Church in the presence of the family and a very few close friends before an improvised altar of Queen Ann's lace and white lilies. Tall tapers burned in candelabra. The bride was lovely in her gown of egg shell crepe with matching accessories and she carried a bouquet of baby's breath and sweet peas tied with white satin ribbon. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Nell Bennett who was becomingly attired in a green and white model with accessories to match carrying a bouquet of lavender and pink gladioli tied with lavender ribbon. Ross Gleghorn served the groom as best man. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left for a motor trip through northern Arkansas and will later be at home in Russellville where the groom is connected with the Farmers Bank & Trust Co. The bride for the past few years has been a popular member of the Hope public school faculty. The groom was reared in this city and has only just in the past year severed his connection with the Arkansas Bank & Trust Co. where he had been employed since a very young boy, to take the position of manager of the insurance department of the Farmers Bank & Trust Co. of Russellville.

ADMISSION 10-25-35

An attractive bridge party was given last evening by Miss Martha Martindale at her home on West Fulton street announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her sister, Miss Mary Martindale to Whitford Compton on June the twentieth. The glorious color note of yellow was carried out in every charming detail of the decorations and refreshments. Bowls of beautiful nasturtiums and shasta daisies were placed at every point of vantage. Four tables were arranged for the players. Prizes for the evening went to the Misses Aline Horton and Clarice Cannon. Beautiful gifts of remembrance were presented to the honoree and Miss Viva Bennett a popular June bride-elect. A most tempting salad plate was served conveying the announcement in a very clever manner having cupids heralding the date of the wedding. ## Make Search For Chicago Killer

One of Greatest Searches In City Conducted as Reporter Slain

CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP)—One of the greatest murder hunts Chicago has ever seen was organized Tuesday. Police, state's attorney's men, private detectives and the organized power of the press joined to track down the man who killed Alfred (Jake) Lingle, 38-year-old reporter for the Tribune Monday.

Rewards totalling $30,000 were posted—$25,000 by the Tribune and $5,000 by the Chicago Evening Post. The Press Club of Chicago issued a statement that it stood ready to post an additional $10,000.

Two hundred or more persons were within a few feet of Lingle when he was shot down at 1:25 p. m. Monday, yet the slayer not only escaped but left witnesses with a confusion of stories as to just what happened.

Murder Scene Revisited

Early Tuesday the investigators revisited the murder scene—the subway that dips under Michigan boulevard at Randolph street and leads to the Illinois central station. They wanted to recheck every possible means of escape that the slayer may have taken. They sought to learn whether some clue, previously overlooked, might be revealed.

Already they had the killer's gun, a pocket revolver of .38 caliber; and they had the black silk glove worn by the killer to prevent telltale fingerprints on the pistol butt. That was about all.

There were many witnesses, and almost as many different stories of what happened. Several, however, tentatively identified rogue gallery pictures of Sam Hunt, Capone gunman, as closely resembling the man who killed Lingle. Hunt, carrying a shotgun in a golf bag, was arrested a fortnight ago on the northwest side shortly after a gang gunning in which the body of the victim was spirited away. He is out on bond under charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Mellet Murder Recalled

Lingle is the first newspaperman, the Tribune pointed out, to be murdered since Don R. Mellet, Canton, Ohio, editor, was slain in July, 1926, following his crusade against gangster's there. Lingle's 18 years as a Tribune reporter have been devoted largely to police reporting and investigation, a job that has brought him into contact with most of the "big shot" gangsters of Chicago. He was well acquainted with Al (Scarface) Capone, among others, and once was entertained at the Capone home in Miami.

The Tribune reporter, reputedly wealthy enough to retire, but staying on the job through pure joy of the work, was working on the chain of gang murders that have been committed within the last 10 days. He himself became the eleventh victim.

The Tribune Tuesday said there appeared to be no direct motive.

Lingle, the paper said, had been "covering" the underworld for the Tribune for years. He had come to know most of the gang leaders. He probably knew more policemen than any other person. Police Commissioner William Russell was one of his closest friends, their acquaintance having begun when Russell was walking a patrolman's beat 20 years ago.

Every branch of law enforcement promised full and unrelenting prosecution of the hunt for Lingle's slayer. Frank J. Leach, president of the Chicago crime commission, commented:

"The murder of Lingle was intended as a warning to Chicago newspapers that they have to stop going after gangsters. I have tried to tell the people that gangsters eventually would start killing honest citizens. Gangsters are trying to terrorize the whole community. We must not submit."

Sweeping orders for a new round-up of gangsters were issued immediately after the body of Lingle was identified. Several arrests followed, but none of the prisoners was believed to have been the man who fired the single shot into the back of Lingle's head.

One man arrested was John J. "Boss" McLaughlin, former legislator, who police learned had sought Lingle's aid in starting a gambling racket. Lingle refused, and police were told that McLaughlin threatened to "get even." McLaughlin denied ever making any threats, and professed friendship for Lingle.

The slain newspaperman was married and the father of two small children. He was a native Chicagoan and began work at the Tribune as an office boy.

The Short Ballot

It has been suggested since the beginning of the present political campaign that it would be unwise for a candidate for to advocate direct election of all responsible officials, says the Morrilton Democrat. Election of officials by popular vote seems to be the essence of Democracy as understood by the American people.

The fact that the present highway commission and the commissioner is appointive has provoked the above suggestion and many people in politics seem to be clamoring for the election of all officials.

The federal government is a fair example of centralized government, continues the Morrilton paper. The president is the only official elected by the nation at large. The issue of the campaign center around the candidate for president, and he makes and defines issues. The president is responsible to the people and is generally responsive to public opinion.

States, in theory, follow the example of the federal government, yet in all the states most of the state officials are elected by popular vote. In the case of the president, he selects his corps of officials who are responsible to him. He selects men in harmony with his policies and is able to proceed without embarrassment, whereas, state officials, who are a part of the executive department, are elected independently of the governor and are not always in harmony with him. Less than 30 years ago the governor of Arkansas and the attorney general came to blows in the corridors of the capital and destroyed any possibility of harmony during the remainder of the administration. The attorney general could tell the governor to "go to" because he himself was elected by the people.

No one questions the efficiency of the Federal government, as far as democracies go. The whole machinery works in harmony and the policies are worked out by a group responsive to the chief executive. A few times mistakes have been made as in the case of the late Warren Harding but that is the exception rather than the rule.

With the appointive powers of the governor increased the attention of the people could be directed to him and no doubt better material would be elevated to that office. If the people fail in their choice for governor, how many more opportunities have they to fail by electing the entire staff of state officials?

The present highway commission in this state may not be what it should be. But with a field full of candidates seeking the positions if commissioners were elective it is likely that a more efficient commission would be elected. The right kind of material in the governor's office would likely insure the right kind of material on the highway commission in a democracy the final responsibility rests with the people.

One candidate for United States Senator is advocating the election of U. S. District judges. What remedy this move would effect except to insure the majority party in the various sections of the country of getting the office is not known. In the case of this district no one doubts the integrity of the late Judge Freibor or of the present Judge John E. Martineau irrespective of their politics.

The leading political economists in the United States advocate the "short ballot" that the electors might concentrate on the leading candidate for the chief executive position in a given governmental unit. Statesmen with courage to put it over are in demand.

Strange Boycott

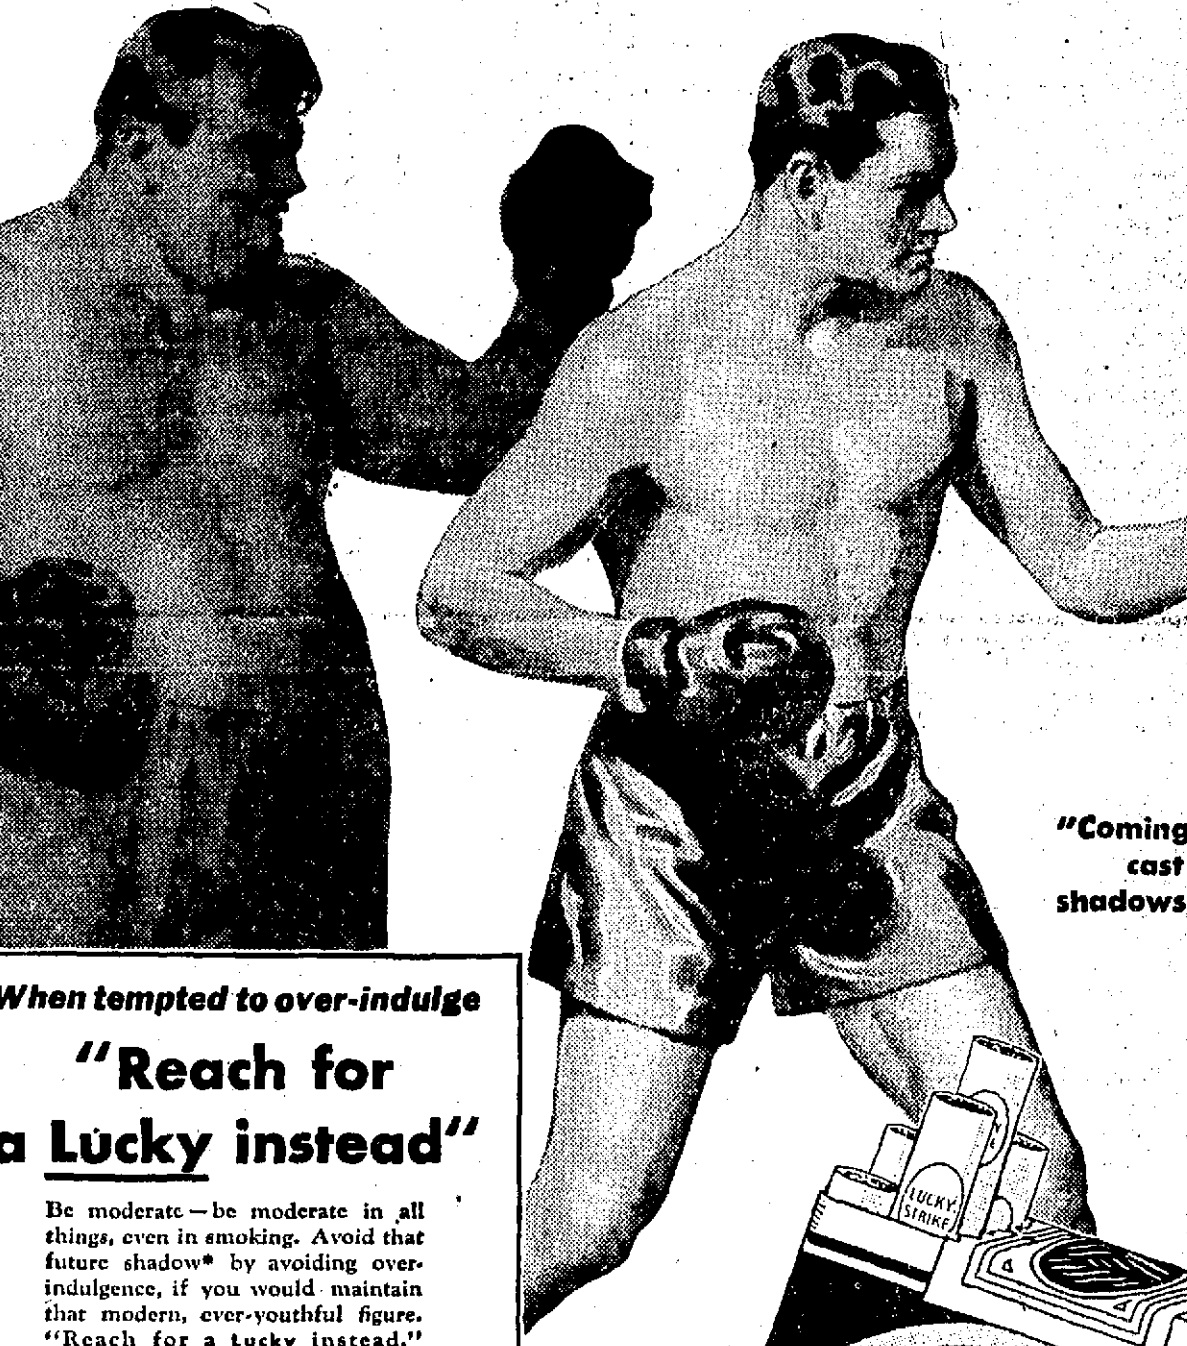

THERE is a strange manifestation of cruel intolerance in California, where a committee of five local clergymen and laymen have organized a boycott, both advertising and subscription, against the Modesto News Herald, says Editor & Publisher, national journalism weekly. The newspaper is frankly opposed to prohibition and also recently took a part in promoting a tennis tournament, during which some of the contestants chose to play their matches on Sunday. This is the crime for which it is to be punished by commercial reprisals. The editorial management of the newspaper, when waited upon by the committee, assured the would-be righteous wreckers that the newspaper's opinions were its own and that coercion would not deter the management from pursuing a course which it believed right. The News Herald could not be frightened out of policy, though it might be ruined by boycott.

The bark of such a boycott is usually worse than its bite. Intolerant people are invariably great bluffers. Driven by tremendous personal egotism, wherein they picture themselves as the big strong brothers of the poor little common people, they often say and do strange things and it is usually well to discount such threats. We entertain no fear for the Herald.

The ministerial committee is also talking about starting a newspaper to replace the News Herald. All right, no objection to that. It is a free country and if these gentlemen will put up the money to start a newspaper they should be entitled to their experience. A boycott, however, is different. It calls for indecent, underhand, unprincipled group action, which sometimes must be met by resort to laws which protect a free press from mistreatment at the hands of conspirators. On second thought these high-minded gentlemen will probably discover that such action would constitute a worse abuse than that which they think they are fighting. By all means they should start a newspaper of their own and give the News Herald a fair fight in editorial columns. We would respect that sort of warfare and the ministers doubtless would emerge from it better men, spiritually speaking.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by William Braucher

From Moriarty

Baseball experts who picked the Washington Senators for the second division this year are the ones who picked the team to win the last year. And, to say they are just as confident to concede that the Senators will win this year as they were willing to confess last year that the club was weak, is a little hard to figure out.

On the other hand, I was talking to one of the New York writers who has pre-season handicaps for 1931. This year he picked them for the second division. And he thinks the team this year is going away over its head.

"That team is all needed up with the 'hook' and 'slide' game," he says. "When it gets hot the whole game will collapse like your Uncle Louis's collar in the annual freshmen's ball game with the Yanks."

Look at the Pitchers

A DAY or so after getting the expert's lowdown, I happened to be discussing the same subject with George Moriarty, the umpire.

"I've heard a lot of smart baseball men," said George, "declare that the Senators were playing out of their class. There may be something to it, but I think they are going to be hard to beat all summer. And if they are still up there July 4th, the stuff's off for the rest of the teams."

Look at the Pitchers

I mean the variety of stuff served by these Washington pitchers. Young Lloyd Brown feeds up that screw ball, Liska the underhand, Marberry the fast one. No two games with Washington are alike. The opposing batters have got to figure out something new every day, and the pitchers have been staying fresh the real test.

"Have you noticed in the climb of the Senators that Goslin wasn't hitting much? Rice and Judge were doing a lot of the clubbing. These two may fall off in hitting a little later on, but when they do figure Goslin will be ready to bust a few fences."

Yank-Mack Rivalry

INCIDENTALLY, quite a battle has been aroused between the Athletics and the Yanks, and this may help Washington. For years the Yanks gazed upon the Athletics with a supercilious eyebrow. Mack's team was regarded as "the chesty A's."

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

ILLINOIS will play the West Point gridders at New York in the fall, and after that the Big Ten will join the Navy in having nothing more to do with the Army. The recent Big Ten ruling that members will not be permitted to engage in athletic contests with any school which does not observe the three-year eligibility rule severs relations for the ten western schools with the Army.

Dick Bartell, Pirate shortstop, suffered with blisters on his hands, the result of clutching the willow. So he got a rubber sponge and tied it to the handle of his club.

Connie Mack has bent the watchful and paternal eye upon Walter Masters, young Penn pitcher. He weighs was quite a football player last fall. He weighs 185, is a right-hander and has a fast ball like George Earnshaw's.

Athletics and the Yanks, and this may help Washington. For years the Yanks gazed upon the Athletics with a supercilious eyebrow. Mack's team was regarded as "the chesty A's."

This relationship started to change last year. The Mackian clouters administered some rather decisive drubbings to the Ruppert rosterers. It was not the style in which the Yankees were accustomed to being regarded by the team from Philadelphia. This year, the Athletics have turned the tables and look upon the Yankees as the remnant of what used to be good. It has aroused the spark of fight in Shawkey's crowd. The rivalry is intense and bitter. Something may come of it yet.

How does this affect the Senators? Merely in this way: let them go about the business of beating one another. If the Yanks and A's will just spend their strength in that way, both teams will be easier for Washington to subdue. It sounds like a good theory, anyway.

Southern Football Star Gets Contract in Movies

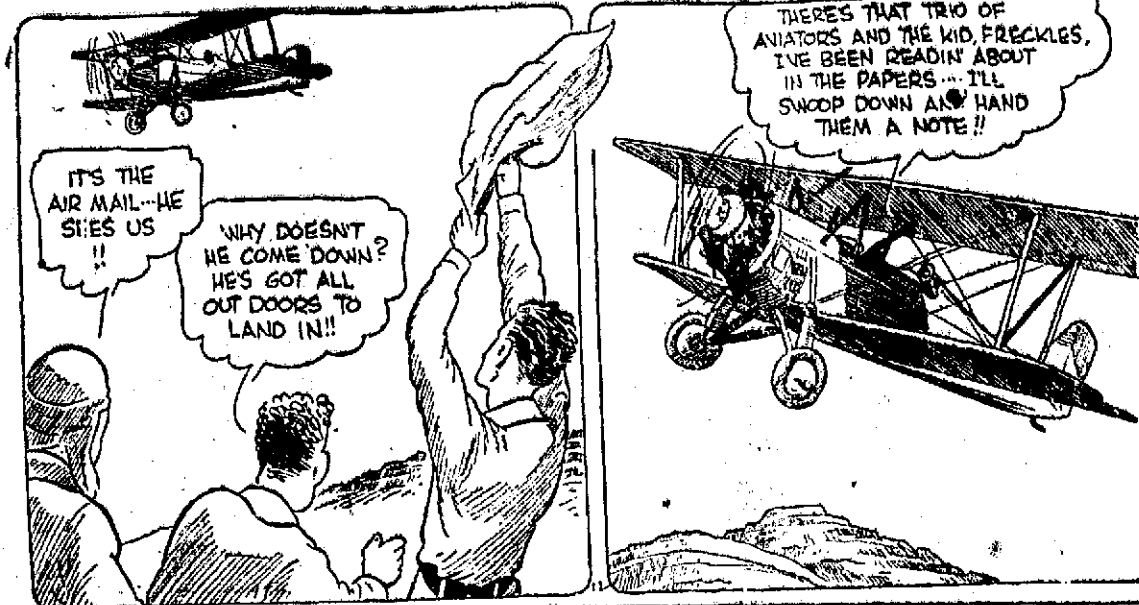

HOLLYWOOD, June 11.—(P)—Bill Banker, Tulane University's blond blizzard of football, appears today in a new light—that of movie actor with a so-called "long-term" contract.

Banker, who for the past three years has spread terror on rival grid-irons in Dixie and was chosen as half-back on numerous "All-American" selections, will appear in the pictures as a character actor, and comedian, although not of the pie-throwing, falling variety. It is his slow southern drawl, and not his ability or intention to perform the antics of the typical movie clown, that won his job. By accentuating the drawl the studio hopes to make Banker a good talkie bet of the serious, "dead-pan" type.

Banker's contract is for five years, optional every six months, with the first period expiring September. Should he fail to make good in the movies by then, he will return to Tulane to complete his course, he said.

Pay Up! Keep Your Credit Good!

May Bills Now Past Due

All May bills were due May 1st, and were to be paid not later than May 10th. That date has come and gone. Yet, a number of well-meaning people have not paid their bills, and have made no arrangements for their immediate payment. The Hope Credit Bureau asks that you pay these accounts promptly, so that you may secure a good credit rating.

Credit Not a Matter of Honesty ❖ It Is a Matter of Paying Habits!

Says a national authority on credit, "Credit ratings are not a matter of moral honesty—they are matters of the bill-paying habits of individuals. Regardless of the honesty of any individual, the only thing that counts with a credit man, with a store, or a credit bureau, is whether or not that individual pays his bills promptly."

Slow pay works a hardship upon the business and professional men of Hope who are members of the credit bureau. It ties up money which they need in their business. The bureau hopes to correct this situation, in time. It urges you to get a good credit rating in fairness to yourself.

To Better Your Credit!

The purposes of the credit bureau of the Hope Retail Merchants Association, is not to destroy credit, but to establish it. Not to knock your credit standing, but to help you, and to urge you to pay up your old bills, and get a good credit rating. It was formed to protect Hope business and professional men against many people who had been in the habit of permitting their bills to go unpaid for unfair lengths of time. We can all find ourselves in a position where our credit may be stretched, for the time being. But we can easily make arrangements with the firms we owe for immediate and satisfactory payment, and save our credit rating. This rating follows us, wherever we go, as long as we live.

WE all wish to be known as good citizens..

Good citizenship includes honesty. Honesty with Hope business men and professional men includes prompt payment of bills. One thing you would not do is to burgle a safe, even if you expected to repay the man you robbed. But isn't it the same thing, in effect, to withhold money from him after it is due? Yes, there is a legal distinction, but the ethics of good citizenship hold both acts in abhorrence. Be a good citizen and pay up on time.

No Honest Faces!

Although only about 10 persons in 1,000 try to beat their bills, where there are no restrictions such as offered by credit bureaus, the National Credit Association says there are no such things as honest faces. In the credit bureau, honesty is proven, and not guessed at. The paying record is the only thing that counts—each one a romance, a biography—a personal human document—sixty million of them in the credit bureaus of the nation. You are one of these, if you have made purchases on credit from one of the members of this, or other bureaus in other cities. The only thing that your record shows is your habits of paying bills, good, bad, or indifferent. Borrow the money and pay up those old bills, and your credit will be improved.

Chicago Home Is Made Execution Chamber For Family

CHICAGO, June 11.—(AP)—Unusual circumstances surrounding the deaths of three children, all asphyxiated in their beds, led police Tuesday to believe the mother is responsible for the deed.

The dead are James J. Cross, 55, a retired saloon keeper; his wife, Mary, 53, and their daughter, Mary, 34. The tragedy was discovered late Monday night by a son, James Cross, who had tried for three days to telephone his parents. ## Right To Quiz Cannon Is Asked

Walsh Favors Asking of Authority Before Continuing

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—A proposal to ask the senate for specific power to investigate political activities was made Tuesday by Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, as away out of the problem resulting from the defiance of the lobby committee by Bishop James Cannon, Jr.

The Montanan who was acting chairman when Cannon refused to answer questions and walked out, said he did not know the attitude of other committeemen toward his suggestion.

Informal conferences were in progress among committee members in an effort to decide on procedure.

"Since the question of the committee's authority has been raised," Walsh said, "I think it would be better to be certain about our authority before we proceed further."

Horatio Truck Shipments Heavy

Many Car Loads of Fruit and Vegetables Sent From Community

HORATIO, June 12.—The movement of the fruit and vegetable crop from this section is increasing daily, the express and refrigerators car loads Tuesday being four cars of beans, four cars of cucumbers and two cars of potatoes. It is believed that by Wednesday night a total of 32 carloads of beans had been shipped. Ten cars of cucumbers have been shipped and this crop is expected to total 60 carloads.

Carload shipments of sweet corn started Wednesday and approximately 30 carloads will be shipped, according to S. G. Davis, local agent for the Kansas City Southern railroad. Loadings of tomatoes will start the latter part of this week, and from present indications the crop should be 30 or 35 cars according to Davis.

The truck crops in this section are needing rain at this time and the total amount shipped will be governed by the weather, according to the shipping agencies. Large crews of men are now employed at the loading sheds and the work is extended well into the night. The railroad company sends a special engine and train crew from DeQueen each night to pick up the loaded cars, after which they are taken to DeQueen for re-icing and made up into a special train to the markets in the north.

Farmers Turn to Stock Raising

Cotton Lands Are Used For Pastures With Large Herds

CLARKSVILLE, Tex., June 12.—Several of the larger plantation owners in Red river county are turning from cotton to livestock farming. Leaders in the movement include P. Burford, E. K. Russell, "Stiles Brothers, Louis Terry, Dallas Joint Stock Land Bank and the Chapman farm.

Between them, several thousand head of cattle, mostly of the beef type, are being run on lands that were cultivated in cotton a few years ago. Most of the lands being turned to grazing are located along river bottoms, where overflows have been frequent. Water in these areas is abundant and grass is sufficient to grazing at low cost.

The men started with small herds. By the use of pure bred bulls, and by frequent culling, the quality has been built up until some of the best herds in the state are to be found on local ranches. This form of farming is being advocated by County Agent C. M. Knight and others for numerous farmers in Red River county. Many have lands that could be converted from cotton to livestock in a few years.

Veteran's Casket Is Made to Order

Approves It As It Is Brought to His Bed-side for Approval

TEXARKANA, Ark., June 12.—(AP)—Selling the casket you are to be buried in is as important as seeing the overcoat you are going to buy for next winter in the opinion of Craven Wilson, 85-year-old Confederate veteran, who is ill here and stoically awaits the end.

Bed-ridden for a long time from the infirmities of age and illness, the gray-haired warrior of the sixties, has just inspected the casket that was built of white pine to his specifications. It was brought to his bedside and he approved with a nod what he considered the beauty of its lines.

Not at all put out by the morbid instrument ordinarily thought of with a shudder, the slim old soldier knitted his gray brows humorously and laughingly commanded that the casket be left in his room. It was only after considerable argument on the part of the undertaker who had it built that Wilson consented to its removal.

"I'll need it, won't I? Why shouldn't I order my coffin now?" he answered petulantly when asked why he ordered his casket.

"When a fellow buys an overcoat, he wants to see it, doesn't he? It's mine and I wanted to see it. And see it I did."

"It was a fine one, too," he added, "made of white pine, and just as exactly like I wished it."

Despite his illness, the veteran never misses up an opportunity to recount his experiences in the Civil War in which he served under General Price and as a scout in Arkansas and Missouri. He was wounded three times and bears the scars to this day.

He is a former Christian preacher, a poet and a singer. He was born in Middlebrook, Ark.

What Would You Do?

If two hot-blooded Southerners were in a jealous feud over your affections—

If one of the men was your husband and the other the man you loved—

If you knew that they were coming together with the avowed purpose of killing each other—

And if your name were being dragged in the dust of the small village in which you lived—

What would you do?

What did Billie Dove do? For these are some of the plot threads in "The Other Tomorrow," Miss Dove's newest First National talking picture, which comes today to the Grand theatre. It is said to be one of her most dramatic vehicles, with the locale in a small Georgia town.

Grant Withers and Kenneth Thomson are the "men in the case." Others in the cast are Frank Sheridan, Otto Hoffman, William Grainger and Scott Seaton.

Waco Citizen 79, Endorses New Konjola

"Too Bad I Did Not Hear of Konjola Long Ago," Says This Happy Man

MR. J. A. KIN

"Too bad I did not hear of Konjola long ago; it could have saved me much suffering. My stomach was the cause of my trouble," said Mr. J. A. Kin, 122 Oriental road, Waco. "Everything I ate caused pain, gas and bloating. My whole system was run down, my vitality was low and I was gradually losing my strength. I had no ambition and was worn out all the time."

"So many medicines had failed me that I had about lost hope. Then came Konjola. After taking four bottles my appetite increased; I found I could eat anything without a trace of indigestion in any form, and my whole system has taken on new life. I have plenty of ambition to do my work, and I will always recommend Konjola as a real medicine."

Konjola is not a "Cure-all"—there is no such thing, but when taken from six to eight weeks will produce amazing results. The countless thousands of endorsements of Konjola have proven that it makes good in even the most stubborn cases. Konjola is sold in Hope, Ark., at the Briant Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Many See 'The Big Pond' At Saenger Last Night

Maurice Chevalier, the irrepressible Parisian bad boy, singer of requish intimate songs and entertainer extraordinary, is starred by Paramount in a new romantic comedy, "The Big Pond," which opened a three day engagement at the Saenger theatre last night.

In "The Big Pond" Chevalier is cast as an impoverished nobleman who, on the invitation of his prospective and belligerent father-in-law, sails for America bent on becoming a successful business man. But friend Papa does not mean well by our Maurice. As a matter of fact Papa is far from pleased with the son-in-law his daughter has picked out. So he puts unsuspecting Maurice to work (and hard work too) in his chewing gum factory, feeling sure that our hero will be discouraged by the drudgery and take the next boat back to his own bootstraps. But Maurice is far from being discouraged. He thinks the drudgery is part of the American system and enters upon his job with added vim and enthusiasm. One mistake he does make however, in his desire to become a rip-roaring success, Maurice temporarily forgets to continue the role of the ardent lover. And his forgetfulness leads to complications, complications that make for merry, rollicking, thoroughly gay entertainment.

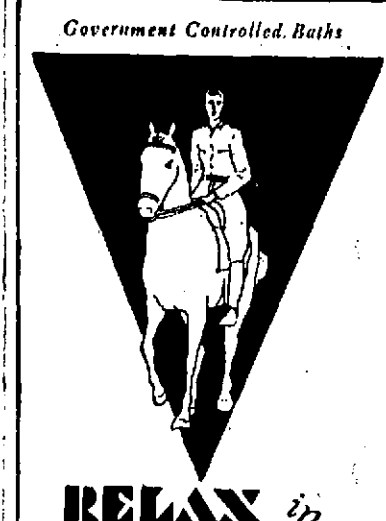

Of course in between times, Chevalier finds occasion to sing two new songs, both of them particularly tuneful numbers, "You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me" and "Livin' in the Sunlight—Lovin' in the Moonlight." And just to prove what American business methods can do to a carefree, debonair Frenchman, Chevalier composes a new set of lyrics for "You Brought a New Kind of Love to Me." These to serve as the "alma mater" for Papa's chewing gum. All of which in the infectious banter of Chevalier—makes for the gayest of gay comedy.

Cluettette Colbert is the girl for whom Chevalier enters upon a chewing gum career. And, as in her first screen success, "The Lady Lies," Miss Colbert is a delight to watch and a double delight to listen to. Others in the cast who do good work are George Barbier, the well known New York stage actor who creates the role of the "chewing gum king," Marion Ballou, Nat Pendleton, Frank Lyon and an adorable child actress, Elaine Koch.

Hobart Henley, who directed "The Lady Lies" and "Roadhouse Nights," directed "The Big Pond," for which Preston Sturges, author of the New York stage hit, "Strictly Dishonorable," wrote the dialogue.

Turkey Seeks Date When Polygamy Will Expire

ISTANBUL, (Constantinople), June 11.—(UP)—In an effort to calculate how soon the last Turkish polygamist family may be expected to die out, the Turkish authorities are shortly to take a census throughout the country. Many families still are practicing polygamy within the law inasmuch as they are the overflow from the polygamy regime which was abolished a few years ago. It is believed that the polygamists have been diminishing at a great rate during the past few years, and special statistics will be drawn up regarding them in the forthcoming general count of the Turkish population.
